

Conditions for the lectures provided by the nutritionist

1. The lectures will be organised when a minimum number of ten people have applied.
2. The price of the lectures is of €40 per lecture. A special rate will be offered when more than two lectures are applied for.
3. All payments have to be made beforehand for a booking to be confirmed.
4. A certificate of attendance will be handed to each attendant of the lectures.
5. Notes or handouts of the lectures will be provided before or during each lecture.
6. The lecturer reserves the right to demand the attendants to undergo an assessment after attending the lecture. This depends on the qualification/status of the applicant. More details about this are to be discussed with the nutritionist.
7. The nutritionist reserves the right to cancel a lecture at any time at his discretion. Any payments would be reimbursed to the applicants.
8. Any applicant who fails to attend the lecture without informing the lecturer two weeks before the lecture will not be refunded. Anyone who informs the lecturer earlier than two weeks will be reimbursed €30, although the remaining €15 would be retained by the lecturer to cover administrative and other expenses.
9. Groups of four or more attendants applying at the same time would be given special rates which are to be discussed with the nutritionist.
10. The venue, date and time of the lectures offered are at the discretion of the nutritionist and may vary according to his exigencies or according to the exigencies of the attendants.
11. The number of attendants for each lecture would be determined by the nutritionist according to his exigencies and to the needs of the applicants, although the nutritionist would do his best to limit the number to a maximum of twenty to make group discussion possible during the sessions.
12. These lectures do not provide any form of qualification or licence but just information and knowledge to the attendants.
13. All the material provided is property of the nutritionist and is not to be reproduced in any way by anyone other than the nutritionist himself.
14. The nutritionist retains the right to add or remove lecture topics at any time he deems appropriate and to change lecture material as he deems necessary according to the needs of the applicants for each lecture topic.
15. Anyone wishing to receive information on any nutrition-related topic other than those offered by the nutritionist at present should send an email on axiakg@yahoo.com to the nutritionist and make his/her request in writing. If possible, and if a large enough group is formed, the particular topic would be prepared and the related lecture offered in due time.
16. The nutritionist will reply to demands for attending lectures within a maximum of two weeks from the date of application.
